

Scott Savage

Savage Training Group Founder & Lead Instructor

Scott Savage has been a law enforcement officer in the San Francisco Bay Area since 1999. As an officer and then as a sergeant, Scott has developed subject matter expertise in police operations. His previous assignments include SWAT, full time assignment to a terrorism/ intelligence task force, team leader on a crisis negotiation team, field training officer and academy instructor, field supervisor and incident commander.

Scott's passion is training law enforcement officers. His primary area of focus is the way the police respond to critical incidents and crisis situations. He has authored special training courses that teach officers and supervisors how to make decisions in a crisis. Scott is a contributor to The Tactical Edge, a quarterly publication from the National Tactical Officers Association and has been interviewed on podcasts that include the Law Enforcement Today Show, CJ Evolution and The Tactical Breakdown.

He is the CEO and founder of the Savage Training Group, an organization made up of expert instructors who provide advanced training to law enforcement officers.

Whether it is speaking to a private industry group about crisis management or teaching the next generation of law enforcement leaders, Scott's goals are laser focused: to advance careers, create experts and save lives.

Speaking Topics:

The Law Enforcement Response to Critical Incidents and Crisis Situations

Police Tactics

The Response to the Mentally Ill in Crisis

Law Enforcement Training

"In addition to Scott's tutelage, his style, delivery, ability to instruct, and personality are engaging and draw you in."

— Richard F., San Jose, CA area Police Sergeant

"Scott is always able to impart specific knowledge and skills from his extensive experience with an inspiring energy, tempered to the perfect degree by his modesty and humor."

— Marcus M., San Diego, CA area Police Officer

For more information, email info@savagetraininggroup.com