A live-streamed webinar featuring core concepts from our Interview and "Interrogation" training courses

As a working police officer, you deserve the best training possible, especially when it comes to interview and interrogation. Although we've had to postpone our in-person courses, our instructors have designed a special training opportunity for you that'll boost your confidence and skill.

Would you be surprised to know that most of what you have been taught about how to spot a liar has been debunked by science and is just plain not true? For too long cops have been taught they can become "human lie detectors" by using outdated and inaccurate techniques. In this webinar, the Savage Training Group Interview and Interrogation Instructors will expose the myths of conventional deception detection training. They'll also teach you modern, evidence-based techniques for how to handle a lying suspect, victim or witness.

Forget the outdated training courses and trickery that cause false confessions. Our instructors will show you a few of the same modern concepts that we teach in our Interview and Interrogation course. These concepts are not only in harmony with the latest research, they work. Normally this training is only available to the students enrolled in our courses.

The #1 question we get is, "I'm a patrol officer, do I need to wait until I become a detective to attend this training?" No way! As a patrol officer, you are conducting suspect interviews all the time. Whether you are a patrol officer or detective, and whether you work at a big agency or a small one, this training is for you. The concepts we teach work for any law enforcement officer. Space is limited and attendance is restricted to sworn law enforcement officers.

Why you should attend this webinar:

- ✔ Learn modern and legal ways to recognize and manage a liar
- ✔ Increase your confidence when approaching interviews
- ✔ Fun and interactive - No "Death by Power Point!"
